To Whom It May Concern. Re:Bongani Rainmaker

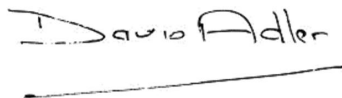

For reasons of time and urgency, I write this reference in my personal capacity, although I have been, as a consultant to the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA), coordinator of the Quality Assurance project within the Kha Ri Gude (KRG) Mass Literacy Programme for the past three years.

As part of this assignment my colleagues and I have had to work with the Bongani- Rainmaker Organisation. We have had to verify the extent and credibility of their national collection of the approximately 600 000 portfolios from distant and often inaccessible tutorial sites, as well as their record keeping and systems of storage and filing of the portfolios. We have also had to give them instructions as to which portfolios we would require for our sampling process and ask that these be timeously delivered to our workshop premises. This has involved us in listening to the report of and evaluating the process of collection and determining the accuracy and efficiency of their carrying out our instruction for the sample.

We have been impressed by the professional approach of the organisation, the clarity of their report and the efficiency of the organisation. We also value their willingness to give time to meet our requests.

Most notable is the ability they demonstrate to reach the most inaccessible of areas in South Africa. It is to the credit of the Kha Ri Gude programme, which depends on a formidable collection and delivery system, that over 90% of its learners portfolios are returned. This is unequalled anywhere in the world in the Adult Education arena.

I believe the organisation has established a track record and a logistical support system which is valuable to KRG and would recommend that they continue to provide this.
