Introduction

It has been an honour and privilege to have been trusted with the great task of verification. From where I stand now I know that the future of the country is in great hands. The work done by government to ensure that the millennium goal is met, the work of the learners, the voluntary educators, and moderators etc. is greatly appreciated. I was just part of those who are given an opportunity to see that the process of verification goes smooth with integrity. For that I thank the opportunity.

Moderator's and verifiers feedback

Here are some of the few feedback received from moderators after completion of verification.

- New participants were impressed by the programme and process of verification
- Moderators felt that some of the voluntary educators were not committed and seems that they did not do enough to teach.
- It is assumed that it might be possible that some educators did assist learners.
- Question seven (7) gives an impression the educators did not understand the question to criteria.
- VE need more training
- Material Was not made available on time
- VE marks are sometimes not the same. Criteria mark does not match final mark.
- Printing of material seems to be problematic, in terms of instruction.
- Senior moderators were very helpful
- Moderation was helpful to realise challenges on grass root level.
- The few days for moderation were very strainers.
- The given target for each moderator created pressure.
- Moderators were very cooperation with verifiers

Time

- Time was sometimes not observed
- Verification was done on time

Work allocation

- Good planning
- Work target was ok but moderators sometimes felt to be under pressure
- Target was met.

Working material

- Some LAPS come late
- Material used for verification was readily available
- Few printing challenges

Work setting

- The environment was ok
- Good working attitude by participants
- Participants were willing to be used whenever there was need.
- Moderator's helped with work that was not allocated to them.
- Material was easily accessible
- Healthy morning devotion

Conclusion

I thank the team for their team effort and assistance
